

Be a 2023 Makevention Sponsor

Sponsoring Makevention will allow your organization to support a maker-based learning community that encourages and teaches everyone—from school-aged children to retired adults—to explore the creation of things and the science and engineering behind that creation.

Makevention will have an exhibit area where individuals, businesses, organizations can showcase their products and services and network with attendees and other exhibitors. This is a unique opportunity to engage the Bloomington maker community at-large.

What are maker communities?

Maker communities encourage both entrepreneurship and sustainability.

- Entrepreneurship is supported by giving people the tools, knowledge, and mentorship needed to create things.
- Sustainability is emphasized through recycling materials, repairing objects, repurposing items, and sourcing locally.
